The following is some suggested language that was developed in partnership with the Faculty Cetner to be included in your course syllabus, should you so choose.

Near the end of the course, you will have an opportunity to complete a student feedback survey on teaching about this course. This is the time where you can share insight about your experience in the class. Student feedback surveys are administered by the university and shared with me (your professor) as well as the department after the term has ended and grades have been submitted. The intent of the survey is to share insights on how you feel about your learning experience in class and opportunities for course improvement. Student feedback shared on this survey can inform future curriculum changes to improve the learning outcomes and experiences for future students.
